GOOD JOB, MORE MONEY AND GREATER SECURITY

1. Air Conditioning and Refrigeration offers better opportunities in a growing uncrowded field

2. CTI provides proven Home Training which lets you learn by practicing with real equipment

Why worry about a poor-pay or unsteady job when the blessings of a big-money career in Air Conditioning and Refrigeration are within your reach? This fast-growing industry needs 20,000 newly-trained mechanics each year. It is pleading for skilled men who can install the 6 million air conditioners, refrigerators and freezers that are produced annually . . . and service the 150 million units already in use. Send for complete information on how you can qualify for a full-time, top-pay job in a dynamic uncrowded field.

CTI Home Training Is Easy — Fast — Proven

CTI Home Training is prepared so that even a man of limited education who has been out of school for years can understand it. The lessons are written in simple English and many illustrations are used to explain operating principles. Training kits of parts and tools are provided so that the student can develop his skill and acquire practical experience. CTI instructors are always at your elbow. The student gets personalized training as well as extra help if he needs it.

Only CTI sends parts to build a refrigerating unit. You get 25 kits, which also include mechanic's tools. During this practical phase of your training, you complete 30 job projects similar to what you will encounter in the field. It's up to you whether you may build your condenser into an air conditioner, freezer, refrigerator or milk cooler. The advantages of CTI Home Training are clear. You learn the interesting way by practicing. You develop your skill, acquire experience, gain confidence.

Why Many Students Earn Cash as They Train

A CTI student spends a considerable part of his time training with kits we send. The 30 Basic-Job projects provide him with experience. Due to the practical nature of this exclusive training, many students soon do repair work in spare time for profit. They make calls on their own, or develop servicing arrangements with local distributors and contractors. Their earnings often pay the cost of tuition before graduation.

How to Start a Business of Your Own

Once a student begins to do part time servicing he actually puts himself in his own business. Some students make contracts with owners of food stores, restaurants, and air conditioned buildings to handle servicing on a monthly fee basis. An impressive number of CTI students follow this success pattern—have a prosperous business under way by the time they graduate. Air Conditioning and Refrigeration is well suited for starting out on a modest basis with very little capital, and then expanding as service calls increase.

Opportunities Are Great for a Fresh Start

Whether you are a young man looking for a field with [illegible] or a mature person who is sick of [illegible] Air Conditioning and Refrigeration. During the past [illegible] years the population of air conditioners increased by 400%—a growth matched by just one other industry. Despite this growth the industry is said to be in its infancy because only 8% of all American homes are air conditioned. Add to this the replacement business of nearly 600 [illegible] units installed annually.

If you are looking for a fresh start in life, consider Air Conditioning and Refrigeration. No industry is growing faster. The pay scale, working conditions, and the 30,000 new jobs in them each year are [illegible] attractions. Send for free information at once.

Letters Prove Value of CTI Training

We want to send you a fascinating booklet called Proof from Graduates. In their own words, men who have earned diplomas record their successes. Better jobs, higher pay, self-confidence [illegible] are a few of the rewards [illegible] of a sound training program carried to fulfillment. We'll rush this [illegible] booklet along with other facts, information, as soon as we hear from you.

UGÀS THE UNICORN

There was a very sad expression on the face of the youth, Pan Ko. He sat facing his mother and she had willing ears for the plight of her favorite, and number one son.

"I do not understand these things. I love Slender Hands and she loves me. That looks so simple. So we get married and we come and live here, and raise a family in these wonderful surroundings. Why must I prove that I am a good fighter? I never wished to bear arms. I am a scholar and well versed in the Tao Te Ching.

This is the life I wish to lead. One of peace and meditation, and Slender Hands agrees with me."

Lan Ts' ai-le, the mother of the youth, sighed. Once she had been young and felt the beat of her heart. She was told to marry a man and this she did. For who would ever dare to think of disobeying a parent? A marriage was a marriage, and parents knew best when it came to choosing a mate suitable for an eligible female. There was a strange thing called Love, but people did not talk about it. First there was duty and respect, but her son needed good advice, and it was up to her to give it to him.

"When I was young," she replied. "I read the verses of the poet Han Yu. These were forbidden verses, and his books were burned, and he went into exile. I loved him and he loved me. He wrote that Love can conquer any obstacle. This I do not understand. If it were so, then we should have married each other, but I tell this line to you. Perhaps you understand it."

"I have heard of that famous line," answered her son. "I think it means for me, that somehow I will have the strength and courage to do that, which must be done, in order to win the hand of the one I love."

At that very moment, Duke Chung Li'Chuan was seated with his most trusted advisor, Hsuang-tsu. The Duke was worried.

"My daughter does not eat well. All she thinks of is the youth, Pan Ko. She wishes him for her husband, but I have other plans. It would be best if she married Li Shou. We could thus join our fighting forces and be very strong. But I must follow our tradition. The youth is entitled to show he has strength and courage in a test. Now what shall we do?"

Hsuang-tsu was capable of handling any situation. Was he not the one who foresaw the year of the famine? And had the peasants all save part of their harvest in the big houses at the edge of the lake? This was very simple. He grinned as he spoke.

"The youth will spend one week on your hunting preserves. He must within this time find, and fight, the Unicorn, and bring back as a symbol of his true strength and courage, the horn that is in the center of his head."

The Duke did not reply at once to this wise suggestion. He knew that the first visit of the Unicorn was during the reign of the Emperor Fu Hsi. The Emperor was sitting on the bank of the river wondering how he best could express his thoughts, so that posterity would know them. Then from the river itself came the Unicorn. On his back there were certain signs which the wise Emperor at once observed, and then copied, and so began the first written language of China.

It was also well known that the Unicorn could neither be captured nor slain. How was the youth going to get the horn of this creature? The Duke closed his right eye as he realized how clever and crafty was his trusted advisor. The youth could never accomplish the task!

"Announce to all in my territory about this deed," he ordered, "and my daughter will know about it also. She has thus nothing to complain about because she will feel I am a fair father."

Slender Hands had gone to visit the great magician, Chou. She had heard that the Unicorn had a stag's body, a horse's hoofs, the tail of an ox, and of course, from its forehead that single horn.

"It is not for me to doubt the wisdom of the ages," she said in her soft charming voice. "But actually I haven't been able to find anyone who has seen a Unicorn. Suppose he did not exist? Then my beloved can't get the horn. Without the horn he can't get me as his wife. This is not a pleasing situation. With your magical powers, what can you do to help me?"

Chou threw some ashes up onto the air and waited until they settled on the top of his tabus, then he looked carefully at them in hope of finding some mystical sign that would help the young female. It took him half an hour to find a clue But it was a good omen.

"Many years ago the great Philosopher, Shung Lang wrote: What does not as yet exist, may some day come into being. We can create through our power, strange things, so be of good cheer If there is no Unicorn — there shall be one. My fee is small. Three tablets of gold."

With happy heart, Slender Hands gave the magician his standard fee. Then from behind the curtain came his assistant.

"You have Big Ears, my assistant, but someday when I am gone you will have to be a magician all by yourself We know that the Unicorn is only a fable, but we dare not speak our thoughts to others. You will purchase a ram. I have a horn from a rhinoceros that once was sent here as a gift from India. We glue the horn to the forehead of the ram, but I must make a powerful glue. Then the young man can do battle with this ram and get the horn."

The time had come for Pan Ko to enter the hunting preserves of the Duke. With him was his servant, Chuen, who was very strong In fact the sword was so heavy that Chuen carried it for his master, also the provisions and drink that was to last the two of them a week. A crowd of people gathered and waved to the two of them as they crossed the boundary line. Even Slender Hands said something in the right ear of her beloved.

"If it weren't against the rules I would kiss you But be of cheer and good heart. Go two miles to your left. Rest there for six days. On the seventh day the Unicorn will appear This was told to me yesterday by a great magician."

So amid the cheers of the crowd, the youth and his servant started walking for their date with destiny Pan Ko followed the advice given to him by his beloved He picked a comfortable spot and there he rested for six days and nights. The Owl in the tree couldn't help observing the youth.

"So you are here to find the Unicorn and bring back his horn," said the Owl as he sat on the twenty-ninth branch of the tree. I am a very old Owl. Many years ago there were those who came here to find the Unicorn, but they failed."

"Does the Unicorn exist?" challenged the youth.

"You can't see Love but does it exist?" snapped back the Wise Owl.

"You have something there," conceded the youth. "I will wait. I am certain the Unicorn will be here on the morrow."

The next day the youth heard a strange sound, and from a clearing appeared the Unicorn.

"Quick give me the sword," half shouted Pan Ko.

His servant took the sword from the scabbard and gave it to his master, but it was so heavy he could hardly lift it.

"Forget the sword," suggested the Unicorn. "I am here to help you. I will follow you back to the Duke's court. Then you will be able to marry the girl you love."

There was great astonishment in the castle of the Duke Chung Li Chuan as the youth and the Unicorn entered. The fabled creature spoke:

"I am Ugus the Unicorn. I am older than the dragon or the serpent. Now you see me. So you know I exist. Once I saw the brave youth I surrendered. I could give over to you my single horn, but what would a Unicorn be without a horn? So I know without answering on your part that I can keep the horn. Don't look so astonished. What did you expect? No Unicorn? I know all about the magician and the part your trusted advisor played in the deal The young man marries your daughter."

Saying those last words the Unicorn turned around and left the castle. Since that day not a single person has ever seen that Unicorn or any other similar Unicorn. Of course Pan Ko married Slender Hands. It was the biggest affair of the year When the wedding was over the Duke held a secret conference with his trusty advisor and the magician.

"What went wrong?" he wanted to know "You, Magician, told me what my daughter wanted. You were trained and betrayed her confidence. Perhaps it would have been better had you made the irritation Unicorn. A Unicorn that can speak, and also in the dialect we use in my territory You think somebody threw his voice into that creature? What do you think?"

"That Love can conquer any obstacle," grinned the Magician. "If you are a great Duke — you figure this out by yourself."
